Epilogue

Foreword

The dictionary defines an epilogue as the concluding speech of a drama, summarizing what has taken place before. This Epilogue is no exception. For every student at Hempfield, the year 1963 has been a drama—or, rather, one act in the greater drama of life. For those who graduate this year, it has a special significance. It is their last season within the fellowship of this citadel of learning, where they spent six years. During that most critical period of life, they were changed from small barbarians into civilized young adults; and they will often remember the fun, the hard work, and the friends they shared here. If this book enables one of these graduates to enjoy his memories more fully, it has fulfilled its purpose.

Dedication

We, the class of nineteen hundred and sixty-three, dedicate this yearbook to

MR. ALBERT LANDIS BRACKBILL, JR.

He has inspired us by his warm personality and by his dedication to the highest goals of education, both in his own enjoyment of teaching and in his efforts to raise educational standards for future classes of Hempfield High School.

Faculty

SCHOOL BOARD

The Hempfield School Board is one of the most active staffs in the entire school. Its duties range from appointing athletic coaches to managing cafeteria funds and contracting for bus transportation. Also a sounding board for public grievances, this group opens for discussion any difficulties which arise in the district. Prospective teachers are approved by the board, which sets up the budget for the school to include salaries, education costs, and maintenance of the school buildings.

THOUGHTS ON GRADUATION

A group we stand, though each one walks alone
To meet with strength his future and his fate.
We hope to guide our lives by what we learned
The price we paid is small for what we earned.

We gaze ahead and are profoundly awed
By life, all that it offers and requires
Of us, the young—in spirit and in deed.
One backward glance is all we dare permit,
For what we have acquired that we are,
From here to grasp the next or nearest star.

Janet Kauffman

A—Cheee . . . it's raining!

B—Wipe that smile off your face, we're losin'!

C—The cheerleaders strike a blow for equal rights.

D—She must be absent today.

E—Ah, now let me say, ah, this about that!

F—Janet reads the Flash.

G—No one's gonna steal my bookbag!

A—They went that-a-way, men!

B—I stand to uphold . . .

C—Boy, I wish I were out there.

D—And there I was on this wild bronco . . .

E—Well, it's easier than jumping over it.

F—Bore, bore, bore!

G—Will you let me get my books, you stupid jerks!

H—I won the clean locker award?!

I—Waddya know it fits!

JUNIOR PLAY

The year is 2050 A. D. and the scene is—out of this world! In a fictional future country the women have at last established their rightful place in society, and to prove this fact is the existence of a woman President, women Senators, butlers, and diplomats. In fact, the women are in complete control, commanding top government positions and dominating businesses, industries, and homes.

Miss Eleanor Z. Hazlitt, the stylish United States President, is faced with three distressing problems: the declining birth-rate of the country caused by all the women who are too busy to have children; the upcoming elections in which Eleanor is strongly opposed; and the threat of an imminent German invasion of the land.

A powerful Senator, Susan Betsford, who is giving the President most of the opposition in the election, is also occupied with a domestic problem—her husband Vicky, whom she considers a typical weak-willed male. However, Vicky is in truth a member of the Gentlemen's Civic League, a group of men plotting the overthrow of the female government.

The League's head, Mr. Pfeffer, and the other male revolutionists are secretly storing arms and training themselves for the coming liberation day.

Susan and Vicky have a daughter Junior, a rare find in that country! Junior is prone to frequent temper tantrums in which she screams her desire to be living in the "good old days" when she would have had an abundance of children to play with.

The country's future begins to brighten when President Hazlitt alters her long-held opinion that the United States President should be a single woman. The change comes when she meets John Chadwick, an "uncivilized" man from a far off country where the men have miraculously stayed in control. She is impressed by his masculinity, as are the men of the land, who finally decide to take some action.

Soon afterward, the Civic League, under the leadership of the notorious and feared guerilla, General Neale (who proves to be none other than Vicky), march on the town in a forceful display of their intent to regain control. The women panic when they see the oncoming troops of husbands and surrender meekly — almost willingly it seems!

The future looks brighter for the country as the German crisis is settled—by the men—and the women return to the tasks which have characterized their sex from time immemorial. Yes, men will in all probability dominate in the future as they have in the past, or so the play (written by men, of course) humorously implies. Ah! Men!

The three act satirical comedy was directed by Miss Kelly, who was assisted by Miss Sperling. "Ah! Men!" was presented March 17, 1962, by the junior class.

SENIOR PLAY

The Senior class presented its play, "Ginger Snaps Back", on November 16 and 17, 1962. The cast, coached by Mr. Paul Herr with Louise Zimmerman as student director, received many compliments on its fine interpretation and performance of "Ginger Snaps Back".

Mrs. Jones, a well-meaning mother, has qualms about allowing her daughter Ginger care for neurotic people. Ginger needs the money to attend nursing school; therefore, she follows her plan to take in boarders and to change their cottage into a rest home. Ginger's first guest is a scientist, Darwin Luther. Luther is on his way to a rest home owned by Dr. Bottlenecke, but never reaches his destination after he sees Ginger.

Complications arise when process server Smoky Bleek, sent by Cynthia Roberts, arrives on the scene. Luther, who does not wish to be recognized by Bleek, dons a beard, removes his glasses, and emerges looking similar to the bearded Dr. Bottlenecke. This situation causes beard pulling and calls for some fast foot and mind work on Luther's part.

The masquerading is carried even further when Luther and Bleek appear as copies of two loquacious club women, Opal Dome and Pauline Praline, in their cat-and-mouse game. Luther's nerves are jangled even more by his valet's "quite, quite" and Bob Jones' trickery. Rest never comes to Darwin Luther; but as the curtains close, he embraces his lifetime nurse—Ginger.

Just quiet down and stop bothering your sister and Mr. Luther!

That ain't no Paris creation you got on!

Sit still! I've shot people for less than squirming!

But miss, you're irresistible!

Don't call me a chattering monkey!

I sez we gotta get down to biz if we wanta put the plaster on this Luther baby.

THE EPILOGUE

What is a yearbook? It is writing, deadlines, selling, earning money, deadlines, typing, and deadlines. However, despite the hard work and sometimes trying situations, the experience of writing and publishing such an annual has been worthwhile and gratifying.

Chief organizers of the 1963 "Epilogue" were Rodney Ditzler, editor, and Mike Heistand, associate editor. Staff heads included: Marie Toews, writing; Barry Carper, circulation; Judy DeBolt, layout; Anita Froelich, business; Barbara Franck, art; Larry Rohrer, photography; and Ada Conley, typing. Miss Fasnacht and Mrs. Simmons served as "Epilogue" advisors.

We, the "Epilogue" staff, hope that this yearbook will not only serve as a record of all teachers, students, and activities, but will also convey memories of experiences we have had as students.

Under the leadership of Bill Teats and faculty advisor A. Landis Brackbill, this year's Student Council has done much to better Hempfield. For the Homecoming festivities, the council sold white chrysanthemums and crowned the queen and her attendants. Standardization of class rings, the continued support of two foreign orphans, and the conducting of the Sir Valentine contest—these are a few examples of the 1962-63 Council's achievements.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The highest honor conferred by our school is that of membership in the National Honor Society. Its purpose is to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, stimulate a desire to render service, promote worthy leadership, and encourage development of character. Candidates for membership must excel in scholarship, leadership, service, and character, and must maintain a scholastic average of at least 85 per cent.

On March 27, 1963, the National Honor Society held its annual induction ceremony. The service was opened by Judy Metzger, who led devotions and the pledge to the American flag. The president, Janet Kauffman, after introductory remarks, announced the names of the new members, eight seniors and fourteen juniors. Four senior members spoke on the qualities necessary for membership: Rodney Ditzler, on scholarship; John Garrett, on character; Carole Barr, on service; and Mike Heistand, on leadership. These speeches were followed by a duet for flute and oboe by Mozart, played by Marie Toews and Betty Welch. At this year's ceremony, the guest speaker was Mr. Arthur A. Hackman, Supervising Principal of Hempfield Union School District. A tea for members and parents was held in the library following the ceremony.

The Flash is Hempfield's monthly news publication, written and edited entirely by students. In the process of compiling and writing school news, staff members learn the fundamentals of journalism and also render valuable service to the school.

This year, under the editorship of Janet Kauffman, the Flash has added several new features within its six pages—a junior high page, written by eighth and ninth graders, and a Student Writings column, which prints outstanding literary compositions by Hempfield students. In addition, each month one of the service groups in the school has been spotlighted in a feature article. The secretaries, custodians, and cafeteria and health workers all have received recognition for their "behind-the-scenes" work.

The Flash is financed by student subscriptions, advertisements, dances, special fund-raising projects, and by a portion of the proceeds from the high school magazine drive.

The 1963 Flash staff has worked many hours each month in order to print the latest news of interest for the Hempfield student body; and with the help and advice of Mrs. Shopf, the writers, editors, typists, photographers, and members of the business and circulation staffs were able to produce an excellent school paper.

The Hempfield Mathematics Club, a chapter of nationally chartered Mu Alpha Theta, has provided interesting and educational programs for junior and senior students who display interest and aptitude in mathematics. Started in 1957, the club has expanded each year so that now fifty-one members are enrolled. The fall induction brought thirty juniors into the group.

At monthly meetings a club member or an outside speaker led the discussion of some new concept developing in the art. These programs, arranged by the president, John Garrett, and the advisor, Mr. Grove, included talks by Dr. Vincent Haag of Franklin and Marshall College and Joseph Meier of Armstrong Research Center.

Each year the club plans a trip to the Aberdeen Proving Grounds or the DuPont Laboratories.

THE KEY CLUB

The Key Club, which is sponsored by the Lancaster Kiwanis Club, has a membership of forty boys from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes. The major objective of the club is service to both the school and the communities of the school district.

Many worthwhile projects are carried out yearly by the service organization. The club sponsors the Thanksgiving Dance, the drive for the needy at Christmas, and an award at commencement for the outstanding senior wrestler. In addition to these projects, the club sells football programs and provides a coat and hat check at school musical and dramatic presentations. Don Hollinger, a senior, is this year's president, and Mr. Lowry is the advisor.

During the year, the club has entertained various guest speakers and has made trips to local hospitals in order to observe nurses and doctors at their work. Under the leadership of the school nurse, Mrs. Roye, the club also participates in services outside the school.

The F.H.A., with Barbara Franck as its president and Mrs. Hazel Griffith as advisor, is an active club the whole year round. Its purposes are to create interest in the field of home economics, to improve family relation, to render service to others, and to demonstrate that teenagers are responsible citizens of a community.

This year the group gave a demonstration called "Shoe Make-up" at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show. In addition to winning recognition for the school through their demonstration, several F.H.A. girls took top honors in the clothing division.

During the year the club engages in activities for the betterment of the school, such as their clean-up campaign, and activities for the members' enjoyment, such as trips to local industries and seasonal parties. In answer to the President's request for a higher level of physical fitness in America, the girls made a study of family fitness and displayed their information throughout the school.

The boys of the Theater Arts Club put much effort toward making Hempfield's stage productions successful. The members of this club are responsible for lighting and sound at all our assemblies and programs. Most of the scenery for the three main events of the year—the operetta, the Junior Play, and the Senior Play—has been made by these boys. In addition to this work, the club also takes part in many outside programs, such as the Hempfield County Chorus program.

Our appreciation goes to these boys who have done their best to make our stage productions successful.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

The Photography Club is now in its second year of service to Hempfield. The members have access to a great deal of photographic equipment purchased last year and have, consequently, learned about many phases of photography from first-hand experience.

By offering membership and the use of club equipment to the photography staffs of the EPILOGUE and FLASH, the organization has been of invaluable assistance to these organizations.

This year over sixty girls participate in the activities of the library assistants. Although these girls never hold regular meetings, the tasks they perform are time-consuming. Cataloguing, stamping hall passes, and checking books are just a few of the many duties performed by these girls.

ART SERVICE CLUB

Although the organization is only in its second year, the Art Service Club has already become a vital organization. This club of volunteer students has two purposes. It provides advertisement for school activities, and it also offers an opportunity for art students to make practical use of their skills. The services of the club are available to all teachers and students who wish publicity for their class, club, or organization.

Y-TEENS

The Y-Teens, formed for service and recreation, is sponsored by the YWCA. This year's Y-Teen group is small but active. The members offer their services to local organizations and also give their time to projects done only by the school chapter, such as entertaining at the County Home at Christmas time.

Since the YWCA sponsors the Y-Teens, the girls may use the facilities offered by that organization. During the year, the Y-Teens are invited to join in activities which take place at the YWCA. In the winter, the girls participated in the "Hanging of the Greens" ceremony, and in the spring they represented Hempfield at the annual banquet and bazaar. Mrs. Long, faculty advisor, and Lynn Texter, club president, have led the group through another active Y-Teen year.

LEADERS' CLUB

The Hempfield Leaders' Club is a valuable asset to the school's sports program. Under the leadership of Judy Metzger and faculty advisor Miss Joan Manly, this club is in charge of the girls' intramural sports at Hempfield. Each member helps in gym classes by leading exercises or by acting as referee for games. The club has undertaken the responsibilities of making posters for the girls' gym and promoting school spirit.

PROJECTIONISTS' CLUB

The Projectionists' Club is a valuable organization to the school. Without this club, many classes would not see the number of films that they do. The faculty advisor, Mr. Brackbill, instructs the members in assembling the projectors, setting up the screens, and operating the projectors. The members relinquish much of their free time to perform these services for teachers in classroom showings and for the student body in assemblies.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM

The theme chosen for the 1962 Junior-Senior Prom was "Moonlight in Manhattan." A glittering silver moon gleamed on the dancers, who were on the roof of a skyscraper. Towering nearby buildings, feathery palms, bright flowers, and the music of Bob Stetler and his orchestra all added up to the spirit of a moonlit night in Manhattan.

HEMPFIELD SINGERS

The Hempfield Singers, under Mr. Richard Kline's direction, began its season's practice to prepare for the church concerts and Christmas programs. Next in line was the operetta "Naughty Marietta". Then came baccalaureate and commencement. The group was also represented in county and district choruses. With all this activity, the year proved to be a busy one for the Hempfield Singers.

PLAIN AND FANCY

The story all started when Dan King and Ruth Winters came to Bird-in-Hand to sell the River Farm to Papa Yoder. They met people like Hilda, who was an Amish girl, 22, and unmarried. She was very much attracted to Dan, the fellow from New York. They also found Katie, whose real love was for Peter; but, in true Amish tradition, she remained loyal to her father and Ezra, her chosen husband to-be. The Amish ladies were a source of amazement for Ruth, who had always lived in New York. Her encounter in the kitchen proved to be a startling experience, to say the least. Ruth succeeded in showing the Amish ladies that a city woman has no place in the kitchen.

Mix in a barn-burning, a shunning, a barn-raising, and a carnival to make up the delightful musical comedy, Plain and Fancy.

Under the capable direction of Richard Kline, Mary Lee Forney, and Margaret Simmons, the Hempfield Singers put on a musical comedy which Hempfield will long remember.

SENIOR BAND

This year the band, which is under a new director, Mr. Henry Fox, has done a great deal to arouse school spirit at Hempfield. Its performance for football shows or, more formally, at county and district band events is a great credit to our school. The band practices long and hard for the concerts and drills we all enjoy.

In the autumn, the band thrilled football spectators with half-time shows on a variety of themes including Tin-Pan Alley and Pinwheels. Penny Hawthorne, the drum majorette, and Kay Anderson, the head majorette, deserve special recognition for their baton routines in the shows.

In the spring, the band presented its yearly concert. The program included some classical selections, lively marches, and a few excerpts from Broadway hits.

Much credit goes to the band for its many hours of service to Hempfield.

DANCE BAND

Under the direction of the Dance Band's new leader, Mr. Fox, the band has been gradually making the change from the "society band" style of music, to the "cool" or progressive type. The members of this organization practice twice a week before school. As a result of this hard work, they have represented our school very well at many area dances and have created interest in starting dance bands at other schools. The money earned at the dances has been spent for new music, music stands, instruments, and red blazers for each member. As a result of this showy appearance and new sound, the organization has had a very successful year.

ORCHESTRA

Under the direction of Miss Zoe K. Cummings, the orchestra once again provided enjoyment for lovers of fine music. The orchestra participated in the school's concerts, playing "Noel," "Christmas Fantasie," and "A Wreath of Carols," in the Christmas program and presented an equally fine selection of classical and "pops" music in the spring musicale.

Hempfield was honored to have been the host school for the Southern District Orchestra for the first time. Among the Hempfield students playing in the District Orchestra this year were Betty Welch, Jane Lerch, Barbara Gard, Emily Holzinger, Lynn Liddell, Carolyn Roehm, Rodney Ditzler, Marian Musser, and Suzanne Hottenstein.

This year, the Girls' Choral Club, under the direction of Mr. Kline, displayed its talents in the First Night of Music. Its selections included "Brother James's Air," "Scarlet Ribbons," and, from the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, The Sound of Music, "My Favorite Things."

Membership is open to girls in both junior and senior high school. The accompanists are Annette Koser and Ellen Sue Royer.

Although the team got off to a strong start in the early part of the season, it encountered stiff opposition in the later part of the season. The team's record of 2 wins, 6 losses, and 1 tie is not indicative of the team's efforts, however. In four games which the Knights lost, the margin of defeat was only one touchdown. Coach Mentzer feels the starting eleven gave a good account of themselves, but the lack of depth due to inexperience and the many injuries by the squad served to cancel the fine play of the starting unit.

The strong point of this year's team was defense. Spirited defensive play and team pursuit hampered many an opponent's offense. On the other hand, offense was the weak point of the Knights' attack. Although they attempted to balance their standard single wing with a T formation, the Knights never mounted a potent offense.

The services of Tom Dietrich, Gary Henny, Don Hollinger, Gary Minnig, and Bill Teats will be lost through graduation. However, seven of this year's starting eleven will return next year. There are also several promising players coming up from the junior high team. Again the Knights will have the potential to finish high in the county standings.

The Varsity Basketball team won eight games and dropped six for the third place in Section One. After looking at past teams and their records of 12-3, 14-1, and 17-0 one might think that the players and coaches were disappointed with their performance. However, with no starters back from last year's District Championship team they were not to be expected to match last year's record. Coach Barry Henry can be very proud of his squad, especially of some individual players. Standout performers included 6'2" center, Greg Kachel, who led the team in rebounding, and Tom Wissler, the leading scorer, averaging 17.7 points per game. These boys will return next year, along with three more regular players: Barry Sellers, Howie Good, and Larry Wise. Completing the starting five are Tony Markert and Carl Ernst, the only two seniors on the team; they will both be missed next year. This year was really a rebuilding year for Coach Henry, and third place in Section One is a fine record. Hempfield should have another Championship team in 1963.

The Hempfield Junior Varsity, while receiving less publicity, has actually compiled a better record than the Varsity team. The Jay-vees, who are coached by Mr. Ken Hendricks, won the first eleven games of the season, trampling Penn Manor, Ephrata, and Donegal along the way. But the Tide turned—turned back Hempfield; and the unblemished record of the Junior Knights was broken. In two very close games, the Columbia Jay-vees defeated Hempfield, both at home and away. The second contest was won in overtime, 35-31.

The Junior Varsity team was formed to give Sophomore and Junior boys the enjoyment of competition and, at the same time, training for future years. Many of the Junior Knights will be considered for Varsity positions next season. While gaining experience, the boys have compiled a commendable record of 12 wins and two losses. The team and coach have given much of their time to making the students proud of Hempfield's basketball prestige.

Although the grapplers had a discouraging season this year, it was definitely a building year. With the loss of only one senior and the return of good prospects, such as John Kauffman, Fred Fisher, Randy Gold and Ron Witmer, the team is looking for a much improved season next year. Also, a junior high wrestling team was organized this year and benefits of the experience gained by these boys should be felt as they move into varsity wrestling.

Wrestling as a sport has grown to a large extent in Lancaster County in the past two years. The number of teams in the league has increased from seven to thirteen and this growth will necessitate the division of the league into two sections.

The Knight "nine" ended a successful '62 baseball campaign with a respectable 6-2 league record. They were in competition for the championship up to their last game, a disappointing 3-1 defeat by Columbia. One of the season's highlights was a 3-2 win over Donegal, the county champions. The Knights' hitting attack was led by Tim Wissler and Mike Leary with .438 and .400 averages respectively. Next year's team should be successful because several promising juniors and sophomores are returning.

TRACK TEAM

The Hempfield trackmen finished with a 4 and 6 season under the first-year coaching of John D. Thomas and Carl R. Kane. The season was accompanied by several outstanding individual performances. Fred Swarr and Tom Fenstermacher, co-captains, accumulated the unusually high total of 163 individual points between them. Fenstermacher also set a school record in the javelin with a toss of 184 feet and won the County Championship with one of 178 feet. Two other school records were set with John Long throwing the discus 126 feet and Gregory Kachel putting the shot 42 feet. The team, now in its fourth year, is looking forward to a much improved record next year. Although four men have been lost through graduation, many promising young candidates are coming up.

We are approaching graduation with eager anticipation to face the challenges of the future. Knowing that we must pattern our lives on the basis of past experiences, we have pursued studies which enable us to benefit from the knowledge of preceding generations. Our own participation in extra-curricular activities and fellowship with other students have contributed to the maturation of our characters. Wherever our paths in life lead, we shall always remember our years at Hempfield where our sense of responsibility, cooperation, and service were first developed.
